The flood risk from the Arrowe Brook, shown here, would rise if our Green Belt is developed

Why we are working to save Saughall Massie's Green Belt
The Green Belt land around Saughall Massie is under threat from developers. It's cheaper to build here, and the properties would be more valuable than redeveloping run down, urban areas elsewhere. Much of the land around Moreton and Saughall Massie is designated as 'flood plain' for when waters rise and the Arrowe Brook and Birket can't cope. Building on this land not only increases the flood risk, but the additional population will put extra strain on local services, including roads, schools and GP surgeries.

Housing developers demand to build on local Green Belt

Following publication of the Council's draft Local Plan, housing developers have submitted counter proposals. One developer has submitted a demand to build 555 houses on land between the Fire Station and Pump Lane in Greasby. Another developer wants to build on land between Saughall Road, Acton Lane and the Arrowe Brook. Their proposals will now be considered along with the Council's draft Local Plan by an independent inspector. We've published more information on our website and will report back in our February Newsline
